

COURSE: African American Studies 409

INSTRUCTOR: Johnathan White

STUDENTS: 32

Students in AFAM 409 were given the opportunity to explore significant moments in 20th Century American history through 360° video clips. During class, students gathered at the Library where they worked in pairs of two to select 3 videos from the 12 clips (6 suggested by their instructor) in the Experience Catalogue that related to class, then write a short reflection for each.

Impressions of the Experience

Students were asked to score the degree to which they agree with the question “How much did 360° video help you understand materials in your class?” on a scale from 1-5. We also received qualitative feedback from 13 students (40%).

“Very good experience, helps us learn in a different way.”

“It was a very immersive experience, I only wish my phone had better picture quality.”

“Great idea with a lot of potential.”
